

Turn Gently

Marilyn Hall, Southern California Gas Co. home economist, shows Frank Mattox, appliance and dealer sales manager, how to turn steak on outdoor gas grill during gathering of 80 food editors and home economists in business-industry at Huntington-Sheraton Hotel, Pasadena. Guests learned "What's new in outdoor living" from gas company home economists.

Gas Co. Workshop Features Latest in 'Outdoor Living'

Southern California food editors and home economists in industry and business gathered recently poolside at the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel, Pasadena, to learn "What's new?" in outdoor living.

Sponsored by Southern California Gas Co.'s home service department, some 80 attended.

In the pool area were eight different models of outdoor gas grills to not only give the visitors an

Graduation Parties

Hosting a graduation party for Dennis and Ellen Cleland of Torrance at the Smith Bros. Indian Village Restaurant recently was John Cleland of Torrance. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. G. Yamamoto of Torrance.

Another graduation dinner at the Indian Village was given by Mr. and Mrs. Wallace M. Wang, also of Torrance, in honor of their son, Jack, who had finished the eighth grade.

idea of the variety available, but the number of manufacturers actively catering to the backyard chef.

Gas company home economists demonstrated the use of these exciting new grills.

Popular grilled foods shown included rotisserie chicken with apricot barbecue sauce accompanied by a vegetable-fruit tray; barbecued vegetable kabobs with curry honey glaze; pineapple on a spit; lamb chops with lemon mint barbecue sauce; dates 'n' cheese; barbecued spareribs with honey-sherry sauce; Rumaki; skewered seafood, and charbroiled steaks with a variety of sauces.

In addition to the outdoor gas grills, visiting editors and home economists saw the latest models of gaslights and infrared heaters that increase the use of backyard or poolside living for year-round enjoyment.

The combination of gas grills, gas lights and gas infrared heaters makes Southern outdoor living more comfortable throughout the year. The patio area equipped with these appliances becomes a living area, actually an outdoor family room.

MRS. DENNIS D. HUGHES (Photo Arts Studio)

Turner - Hughes

In a double ring ceremony at 2 o'clock on May 29 at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Thelma Turner, 3824 W. 180th Pl., Torrance, Miss Patricia Jane Turner exchanged her wedding vows with Dennis Dale Hughes. Pastor William Roleder of the First Lutheran Church in Torrance, officiated.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Charlotte Hughes of North Hollywood and Mr. Cloyd Hughes of Modesto, Calif.

For her wedding, the bride, daughter of Leslie A. Turner of Paramount, was gowned in Chantilly lace and white satin fashioned with a bell skirt with chapel train. Net flowers held her short veil and she carried white roses and orchids.

Miss Linda Robertson was maid of honor and Bill Geller, Jr. served as best man. Mickey Turner, the bride's brother, played the nuptial music on an antique organ, which has been in the family for several generations.

A patio reception was followed by a San Diego honeymoon. The new home is in Torrance.

Both the bride and her husband attended North High School.

Mrs. Hughes is a student at the Flavo Beauty College and her husband is a builder with Schiabo Boat Co.
